DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
2. Claims 1-20 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Exemplary of such:

Claim 1, line 1, the preamble sets forth 'an apparatus employed in a vacuum cleaner' however the claim recites a 'suction assembly' and other elements that would lead one to believe that a vacuum cleaner is being claimed rather than an apparatus to be use din a vacuum cleaner;

Line 21, it is unclear as to what is meant by 'supplies an activated state';

Line 24, should 'generated by' or 'created' or the like be inserted before 'from'?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 1744

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35

U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. Claims 1-2 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Barnes et al. in view of Hughes and Jones et al..

Barnes et al. discloses a similar apparatus however fails to disclose a driving switch and power supply means.

Barnes et al. discloses a suction assembly (fig. 1, #12).

Barnes et al. discloses a dust-collecting chamber (fig. 1, #88,86).

Barnes et al. discloses a driving portion for generating a negative pressure (fig. 3, #82).

Barnes et al. discloses a floor cloth rotatably driven in the suction assembly (fig. 9, #150, col. 5, lines 10-12).

Barnes et al. discloses a rotary member for rotating the floor cloth in a plane substantially parallel to the cleaning surface (fig. 9, #22).

Barnes et al. discloses a rotary driving means (fig. 9, #44).

Hughes discloses the use of a driving switch on a handle to operate a rotary driving means that rotates parallel to a cleaning surface and a driving portion (col. 4, lines 4-6). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art that the rotary driving means and driving portion of Barnes et al. would be controlled by a driving switch on it's handle because it is well known in the art to locate such switches on the handle, as disclosed in Barnes et al., to allow for easy access by an operator.

Jones et al. discloses an apparatus with a rotary driving member having a switch on the handle with a power supplying means connecting the switch to the driving member (col. 4, lines 11-16 and 29-32). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the power supply means of Jones et al. in Barnes et al. in view of Hughes because it is known in the art that there would need to be an electrical connection between the switch and the driving member to allow for proper operation thereof.

With respect to claim 2, Jones et al. discloses the power supply means being disposed in a separate space with a protective cover for housing power terminals (figs. 1-2, #20,22).

With respect to claim 28, Barnes et al. discloses the floor cloth to be arranged to substantially entirely contact the cleaning surface (fig. 1).

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 3-20 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-2 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Otto discloses a vacuum cleaning apparatus with a rotary driving member that rotates parallel to a cleaning surface with a driving switch on the handle.

9. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
